Letter From A. B. Edler. Former Tenant in House Occupied by Kaisers.

THEORY

WAS LABELED IN SCRIPT.

Explanation of the presence of a can of arsenic which, used for baking powder, caused the death of Mr. and Mrs Frank Kaiser two weeks ago, was fur-auction before they left Salt Lake. The chemicals were sold to a Farmington man, who also bought a range, but in moving the goods he left some of the chemicals in the pantry, which had been leared of everything else. Mr. Edle says several days before the auction his wife gave his mother, Mrs. Kaiser, a can of baking powder, of which they had used a part and knew to be pure. His theory is advanced as follows:

"Now the only theory I can advance is, that mother, being anxious to save everything she could about the place, and seeing this little can, thought it was some more baking powder, she not being able to read English script. She must have taken this can and emptied it into the baking powder, or she has the other baking powder can still there and upon analysis it will be found pure.

"We are not conversant with the details except as we have read them from a newspaper clipping, but if we are given facts and we can in any way throw more light on the Mair, we will
